

SIGA Technologies, Inc. Retains KCSA Strategic Communications as Investor Relations Counsel

New York, New York, March 17, 2008-- SIGA Technologies, Inc. (NASDAQ: SIGA), a company specializing in the development of pharmaceutical agents to fight biowarfare pathogens, today announced it has retained KCSA Strategic Communications to implement a comprehensive investor relations program.

Commenting on the appointment, Eric A. Rose, MD, Chief Executive Officer, said, "This is an exciting time for our Company. We have built an impressive biological warfare defense product portfolio and we look forward to working with KCSA to raise awareness of these agents while communicating our strategy for success to the investment community. We believe KCSA has the resources in place to help convey our unique position in the Biotech and Pharmaceuticals sectors and to support our communications efforts with Wall Street."

Todd Fromer, managing partner of KCSA Strategic Communications, added, "We are excited to have been selected as SIGA Technologies' communications partner. The Company presents a compelling story and management has expressed a strong commitment to increase awareness among core constituents. We look forward to providing our integrated services and the full range of our expertise in support of SIGA's communications initiatives."
